MAINE MARITIME MUSEUM

MUSEUM SHARES IN NOYCE LEGACY

Nine paintings from the art collection of the late Maine philanthropist Elizabeth B. Noyce have been bequeathed to Maine Maritime Museum.

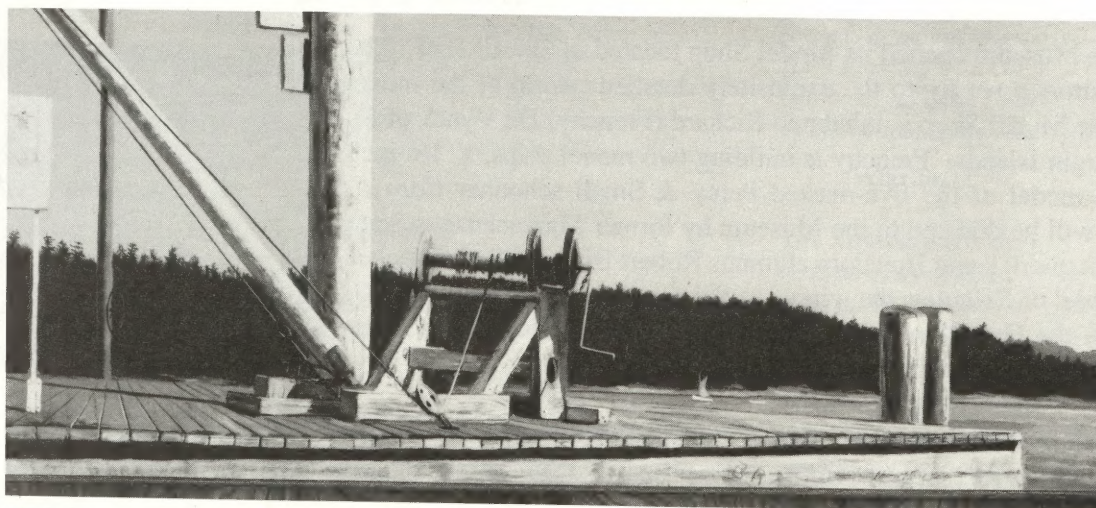

The Museum received two oils by Stephen Etnier (1903-84), which depict a boathouse and a pierhead windlass, respectively; as well as a fine, impressionistic view of laden lumber schooners by Kittery Point artist George S. Wasson (1855-1926). Others are an impressionistic portrait of East Boothbay sailmaker Nat Wilson and his son by Helen St. Clair; a recent watercolor of colliers at the wharves by Paul Richert; and a watercolor of men overhauling a workboat by Edith Sternfeld.

Several traditional marine paintings were among the acquisitions, including a large oil of the Phippsburg-owned ships Richard Morse and Jane Parker, painted about 1850 by the Brooklyn, New York ship-portraitist J. B. Smith; an unusual William H. Yorke oil depicting the schooner Adela S. Mills running for Liverpool under jury square-rig after being dismasted in an Atlantic gale; and a 1925 depiction of the ship Taria Topan by the little-known artist A. Clive Edwards.

"Her collection reveals the depth and breadth of Mrs. Noyce's maritime interests," Curator Robert Webb said. "In acquiring these paintings we have widened our potential for exhibition and preservation well beyond the conventions of genre ship-portraiture."

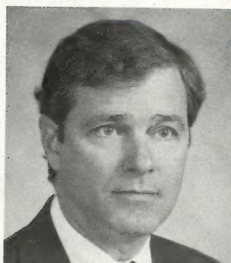

Beyond her many supporting contributions to the Museum and the challenge grant which led to the construction of the Maritime History Building during 1988-89, Mrs. Noyce significantly enhanced the historic collections. She was an active member of the Museum's Collections & Publications Committee, and facilitated the Museum's acquisition of several keynote paintings, including James E. Buttersworth's masterful rendition of the Maine clipper ship Warner; James Peale's portrait of Captain Moses Owen of Bath; Charles Robert Patterson's oil The Golden Gate, 1895; and John Stobart's The A.G. Ropes in New York Bay.

The Museum will celebrate her contributions to collections, and unveil paintings included in her bequest, on September 19, when the Autumn exhibition A Maine Legacy opens.

FROM THE CHART TABLE

In this, our Annual Report issue, we take a moment to publicly thank the thousands of you who have helped make this place what it is: the premier repository of items relating to Maine's maritime heritage; a regional center for learning and having fun; and an ideal place to contemplate matters of great and small weight in the presence of a remarkable past and in the sight of the timeless majesty of Maine's natural abundance.

It is gratifying to note the growing support from the regional business community. Foundations, too, have aided tremendously with assistance for our public programs. The names of these institutions appear at the end of this issue, as do the names of all individuals who, after all, provide the museum with 86% of the funds needed to carry out our mission.

This is to thank you one and all and to ask that you read the lists and note the names of your fellow supporters. I hope you agree that you are in very good company.

Work is well under way here in preparation for the Summer season. The Education Department is in full swing with school programs, scout badge programs as well as with vacation camps and overnight camp-ins. All other areas are equally busy caring for the collections, preparing exhibitions, cataloging our photographic collections and attending to necessary behind-the-scenes preventative maintenance.

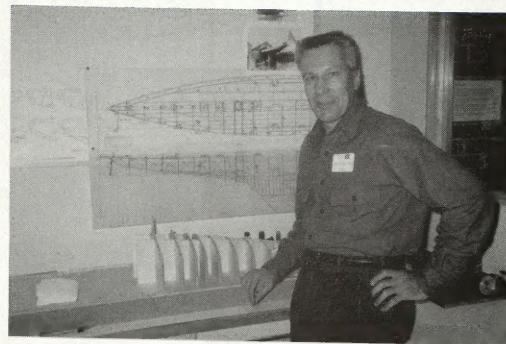

Do come and see us often. When you do, note our new Model Shop just inside the front door where a major model of the five-masted Cora F. Cressy (Bath, Percy & Small, 1902) is taking and will continue to take shape over the next several months.

NEW MODEL SHOP OPENS

In February the Museum opened its Model Shop located in Sewall Hall. The shop offers visitors a peek into the exquisitely detailed world of the model shipwright. The Model Shop is inhabited Richard (Frenchy) De Vynck of St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands. Frenchy is building two model ships, a 1/4-inch = 1 foot scale model of the five-masted Percy & Small schooner Cora F. Cressy, which will be donated to the Museum by former Massachusetts State Senator Jack Fitzpatrick and Bowdoin alumnus Robert Blair; and a 3/8-inch = 1 foot scale model of Reliance, the winner of the America's Cup race of 1903, which will join the Hart Nautical Collections at the MIT Museum in Cambridge.

Both models will be built "Admiralty Style," meaning that every structural part that made the real vessel is replaced to scale in the model. The Cora F. Cressy will be made primarily from wood, while the Reliance model will be all metal, as was the original sloop built by Nathaniel Herreshoff in Bristol, Rhode Island.

The models will take about 30 months to complete. Periodic visits to the Museum will allow one to witness progress in the construction of the two model vessels.

SAILING THROUGH THE FRAME: The Museum recently acquired a watercolor painting of the four-masted bark Edward Sewall painted by Susan Quick Cahoon in 1951. Mrs. Cahoon and her sister Clarabell were daughters of Captain Richard Quick, master of the Edward Sewall. They sailed with him as youths, and this painting is her recollection of the gray steel ship. The painting was donated by G. Baer Connard, Jr., son of Clarabell Quick Connard and nephew of Susan Cahoon.

The Public Programs Department has developed a scavenger hunt based on artifacts. This activity helps to make the Museum more interactive for adults and children alike. Visitors are able to pick up a riddle sheet upon entering the Museum. It is self-guided, but the admissions desk is willing to give a few clues if necessary. The activity has received excellent reports from participants. See if you can solve some of these riddles.

*Virginia is a state, but it's a vessel too
Wander through the gallery, and find the model, do
Boats like this were built nearby, when the world was still new
In a town not far from here, with a fort, a beach and a view*

What is the name of the town?

*Upon the waters I do float
'Til the lobsterman comes by boat
I am attached to a heavy trap
So it can be found without a flap*

What am I?

*He is a scavenger wandering the ocean floor
Eating endlessly, always wanting more
'Til finally he stumbles into a pot
Unfortunately for him, he is caught*

What am I?

*Round and round and round I go
Raising the anchor fast or slow
It takes team work to get this job done
Singing some sea songs makes it more fun*

What am I?

*Said Captain Percy to Mr. Small
Let's build a schooner that's biggest of all
They watched me rise with growing regard
I simply became the Pride of the Yard*

What vessel am I?

*There is a man of plaster
He's standing by a chest
Life-size and quite portly
A thumb inside his vest.*

Who am I?

*The Kennebec is a river,
It flows by outside,
It's tides and rocks and currents
Caused the Hanover to capsize.
While relatives watched helplessly
And prayed all to be fine,
The ship she broke in heavy seas,
Spreading cargo far and wide.
I washed upon the shore that night
At Popham Beach nearby,
Had held some cargo on that ship,*

Tell me, what am I?

LOVE IN BLOOM ON MONHEGAN: Way back in 1903, a young couple take a break from family and friends on the rocks of Monhegan Island. This photograph, reproduced from a leather-bound album of superb "snapshots" taken during a visit to the island, is featured in the Museum's new exhibition A Day on Monhegan, 1903, which continues through July 6 in the Peterson Gallery.

Donated in 1988 by Dr. Charles E. Burden, the album--and exhibit--document a day of adventure, including a visit aboard the schooner E.M. Sawyer hard aground on the rocky coast, helping cod-fishermen at work in Monhegan Harbor, and posing for photographs alongside the local lobster shacks. Contemporaneous artifacts on exhibit propose a picnic on the rocks: a wicker picnic basket, dominoes; an early "Swiss Army knife," and a souvenir porcelain cup showing the Monhegan Lighthouse are among the objects required to complete a day of "rustication."

March 11, 1997

Dear Friends:

Thanks to good planning and management by Director Tom Wilcox, working with an energetic and highly competent staff and an enthusiastic board of trustees, Maine Maritime Museum will report a balanced performance (graced this year by a small amount of sometimes elusive black ink along its bottom line) for the year 1996.

As always we are particularly grateful for the continuing support of all those good souls who so generously volunteered increasingly large amounts of their time and friendly support as the year progressed.

We were deeply saddened by the loss of trustees Betty Noyce, Len Cronkhite and Roger Luke during the year. Forever friends and generous benefactors, each in their own way was a source of continuing good cheer, inspiration and leadership; we shall miss them, always.

A year of challenges lies ahead: we are deep in the process of subsequent accreditation by the American Association of Museums, a lengthy and demanding process which will validate and endorse every aspect of our performance within the community of museums. This spring we expect to launch our exciting and long awaited strategic plan for the future which will help us "Steer the Course for 2000 - and Beyond," vastly enriching the visitor experience for one and all. June 6 will bring the opening of a major new exhibition, The Schooner Life, which explores the world of giant four- five- and six-masted schooners. Many of the largest wooden merchant sailing ships ever constructed were built in the three shipyards which are now part of the Museum property.

Come visit us again soon.
